Gov. Kemp Appoints BBGA Attorney, Others to Judicial Nominating Commission

ATHENS, Ga. – (Dec. 17, 2024) – Georgia Governor Brian Kemp announced 38 appointments to the Judicial Nominating Commission on Dec. 13, one of which is BBGA Attorney Drew Hill. Governor Kemp first appointed Drew to the JNC in 2019, so this is his third appointment.

The Judicial Nominating Commission reviews applications and makes recommendations to the Governor to fill vacancies in state, superior, and appellate courts in Georgia.

Drew is a shareholder at Blasingame, Burch, Garrard & Ashley, P.C in Athens. His practice focuses on representing injured parties in many different types of personal injury cases. He is a “Double Dawg” having received both his bachelor’s degree and J.D. from the University of Georgia.

Drew has been recognized annually by the Best Lawyers in America, as well as the Top Lawyers in Georgia. He is a fellow in the American College of Trial Lawyers and has been selected for many years for inclusion in the Super Lawyers list.

He has received the highest peer rating possible, an AV Rating by Martindale-Hubbell, based on his commitment to high legal and ethical standards. Additionally, he is a Fellow in the Lawyers Foundation of Georgia and is past president of the Western Circuit Bar Association.

"The Judicial Nominating Commission plays a crucial role in ensuring Georgia's courts are filled with qualified, capable, and ethical members who will ensure justice is done for all Georgians," said Governor Kemp. "I look forward to working with this group of leaders in the legal profession to promote a judicial branch that upholds our law, ideals, and commitment to integrity. On behalf of the State of Georgia, thank you to each of these individuals for serving our state in this essential capacity."
